ANGELINA BURGOS' STORY

My daughter, Angelina Burgos, was diagnosed with Chronic Liver disease in March of 2010, she was 6. Of course, nothing can prepare a parent for something like that. At the age of 6, she was fighting for her life and in need of a liver transplant. In June 2010, I received a call that would end up saving her life. I was informed that a donor had been found and we would need to get to the hospital as soon as possible. At around 10 p.m., we frantically packed up our things and left for Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami. Once we arrived, she quickly received her transplant and her healing process was underway. I was told that she would need to be monitored daily for nearly a month after the transplant to make sure that the transplant continued to function properly.

We had been informed that we would be allowed to stay at the Ronald McDonald House of Miami (RMH) on the Hospital's grounds. During our stay at the RMH, our experience can only be described as amazing. The RMH staff was great. They were friendly, attentive and helpful during the entire length of our stay. They provided anything and everything we needed and were always supportive throughout the entire experience. They kept the facility very clean, which is crucial for any transplant patient. The location of the RMH is also fantastic as it is within close walking distance to the hospital and transplant clinic.

If I had to choose what I thought to be the greatest aspect of Ronald McDonald House Charities of South Florida, it would be that you always have everything you need, no matter how big or how small. I can remember when we first arrived at the house; my daughter was still very weak and not able to walk very far. The RMH staff noticed this and promptly loaned me a stroller to help us get around. My daughter, Angelina, considered the Game Room to be her personal highlight. She would insist that we go to the game room daily to play the Nintendo Wii with the other children. I think that this area of the House really helps the children take their minds off of everything they are going through. Angelina has also specifically requested that I add how much she enjoyed the daily activities put on by the staff and outside volunteers. These activities such as arts and crafts and cookouts were a great way to meet the other families in the house and have a social atmosphere for the children. Our experience there is one that we will never forget. Angelina and I will always have fond memories of RMH and its staff.
